

I would like to apply for one of these jobs because I want to gain work experience and improve my skills.

I think the janitor job is a good option for me because it matches my abilities and experience. I am interested in physical work and organisation.

The most important skills for this job are responsibility, punctuality and organisation.

I think I am a good candidate because I am hard-working, responsible and strong. I also have experience helping in a family business, cleaning at home and doing physical work at the gym.

In my opinion, this job is better for me because it is more practical and fits my abilities. However, the content creator job is also interesting because it is creative.
