Game Developer

Dear Sir"

I would like to express my desire to work as a Game Developer with your company, Jeremias Creation. I saw your advertisement on the class job board; it interested me because I have always enjoyed making small game ideas and figuring out how games are made.

I really want to grow as a developer while working on a fun project with other creative people.

I am a good fit for this because I am both patient and curious. I like to experiment with new things on my computer. I have completed some simple personal projects where I experimented with the basic mechanic and a little bit of design. I also like to share and discuss the ideas with others.

I speak both the Catalan and Spanish languages.

If you wish to interview me, I would be glad to do so. Thank you very much for reading this email and considering my candidacy.

Sincerely,
Kennedy
